Investment Objective

The primary investment objective of the Growth strategy of the Cell is to generate a real return exceeding the rate of inflation, while accepting a relatively higher level of risk similar to the long-run historical risks of investing in a blended portfolio of 25% bonds and 75% equities.

This share class is hedged into EUR. The aim is, as far as possible, to replicate the performance of the GBP share class. This is achieved by entering into forward currency contracts equal to the net asset value of the EUR share class.

Fund Manager Commentary

The Bank of England and the Fed, held interest rate policy constant, but stating that inflation was moving in the right direction, but now was not the time to cut rates. Going in the other direction is Japan which raised rates for the first time in 17 years ending its negative interest rate policy. The US labour market remained in "Goldilocks" mode in February with 275k new jobs versus January's downwardly revised 229k (from 353k). Average hourly earnings rose 0.1% versus the downwardly revised 0.5% in January. Overall, the labour market remains strong, but tightness is easing. February US CPI annual inflation was 3.2%; annual core inflation was 3.8% vs. 3.9% in January, delaying expectations of the Fed beginning easing in June. UK CPI fell slightly more than expected on the back of lower food price inflation, with the headline inflation falling to 3.4% y-o-y from 4.0%. The fund's equities were the main driver of returns, though fixed income and alternatives modestly added value. Equity performance benefited from its US, European and emerging market exposure. Within Fixed Income both government and investment grade bonds benefitted from their duration exposure. Within alternatives trading strategies and real assets were both modestly positive.
